

Get what you need to get back to business

In order to get back to work, businesses need to adapt to new ways of doing business. This means making sure you have all the necessary tools to keep employees and customers safe. No matter what kind of business it is, changes will need to be made, and these checklists are here to help.

Doctors' offices and clinics

With patients coming and going, clinics and medical offices need to be extra cautious. Even if you ordered products when the pandemic started, it might be time to restock some of these items. Here's a handy list of supplies to make sure you still have.

- › Acrylic desktop protective shields with or without a window cut out
- › Adhesive wall decals with safety reminders
- › Antimicrobial mouse pads at workstations
- › Antimicrobial pens for signing receipts
- › Appointment card reminders
- › Bandage dispensers
- › Buttons printed with employee's picture since mask hides it
- › Counter mats
- › Disposable or promotional face masks for patients who arrive without one
- › Educational flyers
- › Hand wash reminder signs for restrooms
- › Headbands with buttons to wear with masks for comfort
- › Health-related colouring books for children
- › Imprinted directional floor decals, mats and signs
- › Magnets imprinted with safety reminders
- › Manual or hands-free sanitiser stations at entrances
- › Antimicrobial styluses for use with iPads and screens
- › Non-contact digital thermometers
- › Notepads
- › Retractable badge holders
- › Scrubs for healthcare workers
- › Silicone bands/lanyards to denote comfort level with others (for example, hugs and touching are OK, it's OK to talk but not touch, or stay away)
- › Single-use, disposable forehead strip thermometers
- › Vinyl or acrylic distancing barriers for workstations

Prepare to safely bring back employees

As companies start to reopen, it's important to make sure your business is prepared. It is recommended that people continue to follow the following practices to ensure a safe and smooth transition:

- › Social distancing (specifically, staying 1.5 meters away from others when you must go into a shared space)
- › Frequently washing hands or use alcohol-based (at least 70% alcohol) hand sanitiser when soap and water are not available
- › Wearing cloth face coverings
- › Avoiding touching eyes, nose, and mouth
- › Staying home when sick
- › Cleaning and disinfecting frequently touched objects and surfaces

We have a variety of products that will help you follow these guidelines, and they can even be branded to your business to encourage camaraderie amongst employees and your surrounding community.
